Schindler House

Kathryn Smith

Schindler House Kathryn Smith
The first monograph n Schindler House, the house that architect Rudolph M. Schindler designed and built for himself and his wife and another couple in West Hollywood, California, in 1921-22. The author documents the design and construction of the house, covers life in it (many artists, architects, writers, and others stayed at or lived in the house), and analyses the critical response to the house through its 80-year history.
